

EVOLUTION

Half the Weight, Twice The Performance

U.S. Products takes wand design to the next level with the Evolution. This rotationally molded carpet wand is light, durable, and outperforms traditional stainless steel wands. Through scientific testing, the Evolution was designed to smooth airflow and boost water recovery performance. U.S. Products tested the Evolution against many other carpet wands available on the market and found it left 1/2 of the residual moisture per square yard as the best performing carpet wand in the test group. A rotationally molded head and aircraft aluminum tube make the Evolution nearly half the weight as most wands available. Other key features include a Delrin® Acetal glide with a glide holder that is rotationally molded to the head for an airtight fit. Most aftermarket teflon glides used on traditional wands are designed to fit a wide variety of wands and often don't fit well and need to be siliconed to the wand. The Delrin glide is specially fit to the glide holder on the Evolution giving it an airtight seal and making it easily replaceable.

By having our extractors re-tested at Professional Testing Laboratory using the Evolution, all of our extractors that were previously Bronze certified, moved up to GOLD certified, making U.S. Products the first and only manufacturer to achieve this top certification for portable carpet extractors by CRI's Seal of Approval program. U.S. Products now has 12 portable extractors that are GOLD certified for superior cleaning. For more on this amazing wand, see the Evolution on the web at www.usproducts.com/evolution.
